A question of identity

Erin's Editions

Erin Kernohan-Berning
Branch Services Librarian

At the beginning of October, an Italian journalist triumphantly announced that he had unveiled the true identity of Elena Farrente, the author of My Brilliant Friend. The identity of the reclusive Farrente had long been the subject of speculation, with the author insisting on the need to write behind a pseudonym for an anonymity that was crucial to her art and personal privacy. The bizarre lengths to which the journalist went to unveil Farrente, despite she unequivocally expressing her desire to remain anonymous, have raised questions about the right to privacy and to making the artistic choice of writing under a pseudonym.

Many authors write under pseudonyms, or pen names, or nom de plumes, and for many different reasons. For some, writing under a pseudonym allows them to break free from previous successes to pursue new creative avenues, such as J.K. Rowling writing under the name Robert Galbraith. Sometimes a pseudonym is used for a multi-author series to provide consistency, such as the use of Carolyn Keene for the Nancy Drew Series, for Frank W. Dixon for the Hardy Boys. Some use a pseudonym as a literary device to integrate the author into the world of the story, such as Lemony Snicket in his Series of Unfortunate Events.

Sometimes the desire to write under a pseudonym goes artistically and personally deeper. A good example of this is Michael Redhill writing under the pseudonym Inger Ash Wolfe. Redhill is a poet and literary novelist who became fascinated with the idea of assuming a new identity. When the story of small town police detective Hazel Micallef began to materialize, Redhill decided to write Hazel as another writer. That writer, Inger Ash Wolfe, grew out of the question of who could write a character like the tenacious and imposing Hazel.

When The Calling was published in 2008, with Wolfe's only biographical note being that she was a pseudonym of a well-known North American literary writer, speculation was rife. Suspects included Margaret Atwood, Jane Urquhart, and Redhill himself. While Redhill certainly wasn't keeping his secret to generate publicity, the insatiable desire to solve a mystery had the literary world in its grip. In an interview with CBC's Shelagh Rogers, Redhill says "I didn't do this because I wanted to create a circus, but I did create a circus in an ancillary kind of way, which wasn't that enjoyable to live through."

> "It's clear that in some cases a pseudonym is much more than a pseudonym.

After the third book, Redhill realized that Inger Ash Wolfe couldn't remain reclusive anymore. With the changing publishing industry, and then need for authors to become more involved in marketing their work, Wolfe needed someone to speak on her behalf and he was that person. In an essay in the Globe and Mail (July 27, 2012), Redhill revealed the story of Wolfe adding "So here we are, after seven years of carrying on in private. I admit I'm a little sad about it. Inger fulfilled some peculiar longing in me when she was mine alone, but I'm letting go of her now."

It's clear that in some cases, a pseudonym is much more than a pseudonym. In the case of Inger Ash Wolfe, and possible in the case of Elena Farrente, the pseudonym becomes a living character, not just a name to hide behind. While the debate rages on about the ethics of unveiling Farrente, we can take a lesson on that from Inger Ash Wolfe and Michael Redhill.

Michael Redhill will be this year's guest at the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library Book Gala on Nov. 13 at the Pinestone. You can purchase tickets for $25 at Master's Bookstore, or by calling Rozanne at 705-286-1071.

New owner for Beaver Theatre

By Chad Ingram

The theatre in downtown Minden may open its doors again yet.

The building, which operated for years as the Beaver Theatre, has a new owner.

"Right now, what we're doing is some feasibility studies," Rahim Lakhani said. "I've been talking to people who were involved in the past, but also the community at large. Basically, I'm trying to accumulate as much information as possible."

Operating as a movie theatre for decades, the Beaver Theatre sat unused for years before being reopened for a brief period by the previous owner in 2009. While the plan was for the Water Street building to serve as a movie theatre, live performance venue and arts hub, burst pipes led to a multi-million lawsuit between the previous owner and a number of contractors, which also named the township.

A tax arrears certificate filed by the Township of Minden Hills in May of 2015 shows the previous owner was nearly $13,000 in arrears at that time and land registry documents show Lakhani purchased the property in September of 2016 for just more than $70,000.

Just what will become of the building will depend on the outcome of engineering assessments, but the Oshawa-based Lakhani seems hopeful that elements of the building, including its vintage facade, will be able to be left intact.

He said he's encouraged by the response he's received from people in the community.

"I'm very pleased just to hear from people," he said, adding how friendly everyone has been. "That to me tells me the community wants a theatre, needs a theatre. If we do go forward, the foundation of that would be community support."

Lakhani plans to make a presentation to Minden Hills council in November.

In the meantime, he's asking residents with any memories, photos, videos or stories of the theatre they would like to share to send them to MindenHillsTheatre@gmail.com.

"We would love to hear your ideas and thoughts that will help in the rehabilitation of the premises," he said.

Valdy - Classic folk at its best

Prepare to smile and clap until your mouth and hands hurt! Valdy, as part of the Haliburton County Folk Society Concert Series, will be performing at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavillion on Nov. 13 at 2 pm. Note that the day of the week and time of day are a departure from the usual timing of HCFS concerts. It is hoped that the afternoon concert will bring out people who love music but don't like to drive at night as well as families with older children who can appreciate music in a seated venue.

It is obvious to anyone who has ever heard Valdy live that he loves to perform. He engages the audience with his charming, humble, funny and very gracious demeanor. Very few performers are capable of generating the kind of energy that this man produces when on stage. His obvious love of performing, coupled with the vivid, meaningful tales recounted through his songs combine to create a magical experience for the audience.

Valdy is likely best known for the song "Play Me A Rock and Roll Song," a song that recounts the bittersweet experience of being a folk singer at the Aldergrove Rock Festival around 1968. His repertoire goes far beyond this one song. Valdy has sold over half a million copies of his 16 CDs, eight tracks and albums. He has claimed two Juno Awards, one for Folksinger of the Year and the other for Folk Entertainer of the Year. In addition he has seven Juno nominations and four gold albums to his credit.

Valdy was born in Ottawa and has been a part of the fabric of Canadian music for four decades and counting. He is a singer/songwriter, a guitarist and a bassist. More than this he is an observer of people and places and has the gift of catching the small but meaningful moments in our lives through the lyrics of his many songs.

This concert is guaranteed to please. Tickets are available online at http://www.haliburtonfolk.com, Halco Electronics/The Source in Haliburton and The Organic Times in Minden. For more information call (705) 754-FOLK or visit www.haliburtonfolk.com.

Fleming College to receive design award for rebrand

The Association of Registered Graphic Designers (RGD) is recognizing the transformation and rebranding of Fleming College's Haliburton School of Art + Design(HSAD) with a prestigious design award.

Fleming College will receive an RGD In-House Design Award of Distinction at the Association's upcoming DesignThinkers conference in Toronto on Nov. 4.

Formerly known as the Haliburton School of The Arts, Fleming College introduced the new name and brand last February to better reflect the blend of art, design and heritage programs offered within the School.

The new visual identity, designed by Fleming's Marketing team, was inspired by the iconic Haliburton Campus red doors that symbolize the opening of creative possibilities for students in all programs, and the School's longstanding history in providing art education since 1968. The addition of + Design denotes the School's unique suite of integrated programs that fuse hands-on studio art practices with design studies.

"It looks elegant and minimal on its own as a logo, but can also be transformed into a pattern or a graphic image... I also love that despite its minimalism it still has personality and is personalized to the school by referencing the red doors. Lastly, the execution and typography are all tight. The typeface choice balances well with the heavy "H" graphic and feels appropriate for a design school," said RGD award judge Sabrina Majeed.

The Fleming team responsible for the rebranding included HSAD Dean Sandra Dupret; Drew Van Parys, Executive Director of Marketing and Advancement; Graphic Designer Luke Despatie; and Marketing Consultant Lori Humphrey.

The RGD In-House Design Awards are for internal creative employees working within companies, associations, government and other organizations and are intended to demonstrate the value and effectiveness of in-house designers. RGD selected 42 winning projects from 240 submissions received from in-house designers from across Canada.

Land trust announces Enviro-Heroes for 2016

By Angelica Ingram

The Haliburton Highlands Land Trust has once again selected four individuals or groups who are making a difference for the environment.

The 2016 Enviro-Heroes were announced at the HHLT's ninth annual gala celebration titled Wild About Nature, held on Oct. 23 at Pinestone Resort.

Representing each of the four municipalities, the recipients were chosen for their unique initiatives, passion for nature and enthusiasm for making this earth a better place.

This year the Minden Hills recipient was youth organization one.to.three, a youth-run initiative formed last year that focuses on local agriculture and the importance of growing your own food.

"So far one.to.three has created a youth-run organic garden that supplies vegetables, herbs and flowers for any youth that volunteers within the garden space," said Pat Warren, director of resource development for the Land Trust during her introduction of the award.

The initiative includes Vivian Collings, Emily Parish, Andrew Carmount and Rachael Reddering.

The Algonquin Highlands recipients this year were Jacques and Jennifer Dailloux, owners of Wolf Den Hostel and Nature Retreat.

"The retreat offers guests an opportunity to restore a sense of personal connection to our earth. They offer a community garden, guided nature hikes and high quality nature programming," it stated in the gala program. "They have built the accommodations using eco-friendly and sustainable materials."

The Paudash Lake Conservation Association was the Highlands East winner this year, with president Mike Thomas accepting the honour.

"The association provides stewardship of the lake through organizing Lake Protectors, a group of volunteers dedicated to protecting the lake from environmental threats. The association provides information and tips regarding care of septic systems, shoreline naturalization, invasive species and keeping the lake clean and healthy," said Warren.

The fourth recipient, representing Dysart at al, was John Patterson, founder of Abbey Gardens. Patterson spearheaded an initiative that included transforming a gravel pit to a sustainable garden and educational space.

"Today, Abbey Gardens provides programming in a variety of areas such as sustainability, native plants, and preparing locally grown food. Partnerships have been formed with local businesses and not-for-profit groups," said Warren.

In addition to the awards, the gala also included a silent, live and toonie auction, with proceeds going to support the land trust.

YWCA is looking for financial help to continue

By Darren Lum

After 30 years serving Haliburton County, the YWCA based in Minden is asking for financial help and feedback to continue with its work supporting abused women and their children.

Last year the facility, which provides a safe space for its clients and gives counsellors a base to work from, was closed for six months because of a lack of funds.

The YWCA's director of philanthropy and communications Jenn Cureton said the agency is making a concerted effort to avoid closure by fundraising and gathering information for a long-term sustainability plan to service the county better.

Cureton said although the agency has raised $47,000 it is still working towards its target of $100,000, which will sustain rural operations in Haliburton County for two years.

During this time there will be work on the sustainability plan led by a yet-to-be hired consultant, who will be compensated through the provincially allocated Violence Against Women Rural Realities Fund. The agency will use public forums to reach out to the public, local government, stakeholders, experts and community partners to develop a plan to provide essential services to women and children fleeing violence.

Public fundraising events such as the Walk a Mile in Her Shoes, which was most recently held at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School and included the participation of close to 100 high school faculty and students on Friday, Oct. 21, will not only raise funds, but also awareness of the agency and its work.

The YWCA Peterborough Haliburton associate, annual giving and events, Nicole Paré, was impressed by the participation and maturity of the students.

This was the school's first year hosting this event and principal Dan Marsden wants it to return next year. This year the Walk in a Mile in Her Shoes invited women to participate.

Cureton said this kind of event is ideal because it includes youth who are important to raising awareness and in shaping the future.

"It's so powerful. They're the ones that can make change," she said.

There are other public events being planned such as fundraising dinners and a 30th anniversary event is in the works.

All of the money raised locally will help the Minden branch, she said.

In rural areas such as our county there are additional challenges for women and their children escaping violence to get the help they need because of a lack of public transit, high rates of poverty and isolation.

With 582 counselling sessions provided through the four counsellors (one full time and three part-time), this location is "really essential," she said.

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Grade 11 students Brandon Versteege, left, Ian Griffin, Cullen Johnston and Adrien Petric sit together following their walk with high heels on Friday, Oct. 21 at the Haliburton school, as part of the Walk a Mile in Her Shoes fundraising event to support the YWCA in Haliburton County. Haliburton Highlands Secondary School raised $1,505.76. This total reflects the money raised at the school ($1,055.76) and sponsorship dollars raised for the event ($450). The sponsors of the event were Bank of Montreal Haliburton and Walkers Home Hardware. /DARREN LUM Staff

Ten types of film festivals you'll never see

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

Film festivals are a wonderful thing. They allow us to consider other perspectives; they make us aware of important social and political issues; they cause us to think about the world as it is and as it could be.

But, you've also got to admit that they can also fall into a certain stereotype. Here are 10 film festivals I doubt we will ever see.

1. The "Car chases that do not end with explosions or gunfire" film festival.
2. The "Nothing dramatic happened" film festival. In this festival, I'd like to see a camera crew follow me around for a week in order to show the world what life without drama means.
3. The "The Parallel Universe" film festival. I see this festival celebrating people who parallel park quickly and efficiently when traffic is lined up behind them. This stirring film should also include a 35-minute segment that shows the anti-hero parking on Main Street in summer using 75 to 80 attempts, all the while looking at an empty parking lot across the street.
4. The "Foreign film without subtitles" film festival. If we really want to make people think, we can let them learn the language too.
5. The "This will in no way question man's inhumanity to man" film festival.
6. The "No depressing lighting or sad music" film festival.
7. The "Your kids will probably like these films because they are educational" film festival.
8. The "These films are fairly straight forward and you won't need to sit down and discuss them over coffee" film festival.
9. The "Everyone in the world is finally well-fed, treated with respect, allowed political, religious and social freedom and happy" film festival.
10. The "There is not one poignant moment here" film festival.

"Clayt" Does It Again

"Clayt" Hodgson Carries The Highlands With Big Majority

Clayton W. Hodgson will again represent the Haliburton Highlands when parliament again sits.

Clayton conducted a vigorous but very clean campaign and the people knowing him as an agressive hard working representative of all the people in the riding, turned out on election day and voiced their approval of him in no uncertain manner for they piled up a record majority of 1042 in his favor in the county.

The Echo extends hearty congratulations to Clayton.

What DYSART COUNCIL Did

A meeting of the Dysart Municipal Council was held on Friday evening last.

Accounts no. 707—816 amounting to $9,500.00 were approved.

It was decided to write a letter to the Hydro Electric Power Commission in Toronto urging that construction be started of a service line to subscribers on Haliburton Lake at the earliest date possible.

A motion was passed that Lot 26 on Blk X Dysart be advertised for sale by tender.

Council decided to ask Edwin Hodgins to return his Taxi license immediately and his unexpired portion of license fee would be refunded.

A Prayer

This is a prayer said to have been found in Lancashire, England, on the wall of an old Inn:

Give us, Lord, a bit o' sun,
A bit o' work and a bit o' fun
Give us all, in the struggle and splutter,
Our daily bread and a bit o' butter;
Give us health, our keep to make,
An' a bit to spare for poor folks' sake.
Give us sense, for we're some of us duffers,
An' a heart to feel for all that suffers.
Give us, too, a bit of song,
An' a tale, and a book to help us along,
An' give us our share o' sorrow's lesson
That we may prove how grief's a blessin'.
Give us, Lord, a chance to be
Our goodly best, brave, wise and free,
Our goodly best for ourself and others,
Till all men learn to live as brothers.

Haliburton At A Glance

We learn that the erection of new municipal offices for Dysart Township is a matter that is receiving serious consideration. The present office space is much to small to meet the demands of ever increasing municipal affairs. More space is also required to provide suitable storage room for municipal records.

While we hate to admit it there are quite a number of mean people in our locality. On Sunday evening last Jack Neville left his truck parked at Paradise Lodge while he went with some friends to attend the midnight show in Haliburton. On returning from the show he started off for home but before he had gone far he began to have mechanical trouble when looking for the root of the trouble it was discovered that the gas tank had been filled with sand, glass and pine combs. The truck had to be towed home.

Kinmount Man Convicted On Driving Count

A Kinmount man was convicted in Police court on Friday of careless driving by Magistrate Gee. He was fined $10 and $25 costs.

Accused's light truck was involved in a collision on high way No. 35, south of Powels Corners on July 7th. The second vehicle involved was driven by a Toronto man.

According to the Toronto man, he was driving toward Lindsay when he saw accused's truck coming toward him on his side of the road. He said he attempted to swing to the left to pass the truck, when accused swerved back towards witness' side of the road, causing a collision near the centre of the highway.

Accused claimed that he had noticed the Toronto man's car on his side of the road and could not avoid collision.

Magistrate Gee accepted the Toronto man's story in the light of evidence presented by OPP Constable George Mounsteven, of Lindsay.

A Sidewalk For You

A new sidewalk is being constructed from the residence of John Whitfield to the first crossing. The municipal council should be highly commended for taking this step and it is to be hoped that everyone who must travel in this direction on foot will use this sidewalk as walking along the highway is a mighty dangerous practice.

Fall season safety tips

The Haliburton Highlands Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police would like to remind the public of a few safety tips while adjusting to travelling during the upcoming time change. Daylight savings time will bring darkness outside at a much earlier time of the day. People are travelling to and from work in their motor vehicles and even bicycles. Visibility on our roads is more challenging when it is dark outside. The OPP would like to remind the public of a few safety tips while adjusting to travelling during the time change. On Sunday, Nov. 6 we will be switching the clocks back an hour.

Keep the following in mind.

Motorists

- Shorter days can make it harder to see children who are playing as well as people walking or riding their bikes.
- Sunrise later in the morning causes increased brightness to driver's
- Watch for children who love to play in piles of leaves on the side of the road
- Slow down in those areas that children may be playing as visibility is limited with shorter hours of daylight
- Slow down on wet pavement as fallen leaves can make pavement slippery causing poor traction and visibility
- Be vigilant of the increased presence of school buses as fall is the beginning of the school year

Pedestrians

- Walk facing traffic, wear reflective clothing or carry a flashlight.
- Keep the volume low on any audio device so you can hear any dangerous situations approaching and take well-lit routes.

Crimes can be reported online

The Haliburton Highlands OPP would like to remind citizens that online reporting is available for the reporting of minor crimes. The Ontario Provincial Police is reminding the public about the availability of the online reporting system as an alternative to having an officer attend a scene for a minor incident. Citizen self reporting has rolled out across the province and the OPP is proud to offer this simple and efficient new system as a means of reporting certain minor incidents and crimes.

The OPP's Citizen Self Reporting is an easy to use internet reporting tool that can be accessed from a computer or mobile device and sent directly to the OPP anywhere, anytime.

In an effort to enhance our service delivery, this online reporting system will allow the public to report specific crimes such as lost property, stolen license plates, theft from vehicles, driving complaints, and property damage without an officer having to be dispatched to the scene, provided there are no suspects, no injuries or the incident is not an emergency.

The use of the new system is completely optional. Police will still attend a call for service if desired.

To learn more, and to access Citizen Self Reporting online, go to opp.ca or call the OPP toll free number at 1-888- 222-1122.
